

If Only

Lyric by: Martin H. Samuel used to see the sunrise as I was going to bed breakfast at lunchtime two aspirin for my head you saw me as I used to be on a ride at the fair easy-going that was me on a merry-go-round bound nowhere

if only I'd loved you
half as much as you loved me
if only I'd loved
more than I've loved before as we were walking on the sand I was dancing on the moon but I could not understand why you left so soon you saw through me for what I am flying fancy-free thought I didn't give a damn but now you're gone it's clear to me

if only I'd loved you

if only I'd loved you

if only I'd loved you

if only I'd loved you

if only I'd loved you

if only I'd loved you ... if only I'd loved you
